

NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE OLDEST AMERICAN SPORTING AND THEATRICAL JOURNAL.

Copyrighted, 1890, by The Frank Queen Publishing Company (Limited).

Founded by FRANK QUEEN, 1853.

AN INVOCATION.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY EARLE REMINGTON.

Lend me thy touch, I pray thee, master, dear,
That I may make the melody more clear;
Without thee, tho' I play with passing skill,
The simplest tune seems full of discord still.
I wish the power to waken hearts of men,
And, having once aroused them, then
Strike minor chords so sweet, so soft and low,
That tears, too long unshed, may start and flow.
May dead old memories awaken as I play,
And conscience, long asleep, resume its sway;
May faces long forgotten seem to smile,
And say: "Where hast thou tarried all this while?"
Then lend thy touch, my master, for an hour,
That I may teach the world thy magic power;
And, tho' the hand that strikes the chords be mine,
The glory, now and ever, shall be thine.

THE PICTURE AND THE MODEL.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY THE LATE WILLIAM H. BUSHNELL.

Around a life size picture recently hung in the "Exhibition" was gathered a crowd of visitors—the majority enthusiastic, the few severely critical. The painting represented a young and beautiful woman resting upon and floating easily and gracefully through soft gray clouds, with her thin, clinging draperies and abundance of long, red bronze hair mingling with and lost among misty shadows. Every curve of the white and perfect limbs, every line of the lithe, superbly developed figure, were dimly revealed through the transparent covering which, falling away, gave tantalizing glimpses of the exquisite moulding of the snowy marble of shoulders, throat and bust. The face, turned upward and partially away, with eyes modestly veiled by long and silken lashes, wore an expression chaste to sacredness, and was a revelation of the purity and strength of love shrined within the heart of woman.

Visitors gazed upon the picture with subdued breath, and, for the most part, voiceless lips. It was so wonderful in execution, so realistic, so innocent in grossness as to compel admiration and challenge worship.

"Yes, grandly conceived and wonderfully executed, but highly idolized," was the almost sneering remark of one who looked only through the cold, passionless eyes of art. "No woman ever trod the earth thus unstained, and I question if even the angels are so pearl fair."

"I disagree with you," answered a young artist, eager to defend the sex he revered. "The face may have a touch of inspiration, but I believe purified spirits walk the earth as well as 'the shining here'?"

"Let us ask the painter."

"The figure is as perfect a reproduction as brush can make; the face very slightly spiritualized," was explained.

"You were very fortunate in securing such a model."

"Yes, and I fancy it was her first posing, and that her life history must be sad."

"Who was she?"

"I do not know; never inquired. She came to my studio, suggested the picture, proposed to become a model. Art with me is simply the absorption of all else, and flesh is only clay."

"You certainly know her address."

"As you seem interested, I regret to say I do not. Indeed, and purposely, I fancy, she was very reticent, and since finishing the picture is as much lost as if she had never existed."

"Strange and pitiful! Some great necessity must have driven her to unveiling such perfectness as I have never seen, never expect to see."

"And I had very much to imagine. I am certain that nothing would have tempted her to pose for the Lady Godiva, Dame under the temptation of Jupiter, or anything in the least approaching the nude. She even blushed at the thinness of the dress I insisted upon, though much thicker than represented."

An influx of visitors interrupted the conversation and it was not renewed. But, intensely fascinated, the younger man watched the effect of the picture upon them, ambitiously longing for the fame and honor it would bring, and determined to find the beautiful model; if possible, secure her services, and endeavor to also win the laurel crown.

Among the many lured thither, though not for love of art, but self-glorification, came Midas. Famous pictures were nothing to him, save as he, by ownership, became noted.

"Ahem!" he said, addressing the artist, in a pompous and patronizing fashion, "what is the price of this, ahem! picture, sir?"

"It is already sold," was the quiet response.

"Sorry! Would have bought it. Might I inquire at what figure you disposed of the—ahem!—picture?"

"One thousand dollars and cost of the frame."

"A thousand dollars? Preposterous! A fool and my money soon parted;" and he stalked away as if he had been done some great and premeditated injury.

"A thousand dollars!" was repeated, in accents low and eloquent with astonishment and quivering, as with pain. "He received a thousand dollars, and I—heaven help me—the poor, pitiful sum of twenty."

The young artist who had so warmly defended woman heard the words, turned quickly around, saw a reeling form, and was just in time to save her from a heavy fall upon the floor. A single glance was sufficient to satisfy him he held within his arms the original of the picture. Almost reverently he carried her to another room, laid her upon a sofa, and called for assistance.

"Grief and anxiety, combined with want of food, have nearly completed their work," explained an old physician, who, chancing to be near, had answered the summons.

"Can nothing be done for her?" came in trembling accents from the lips of the sympathetic young artist.

"Certainly, rest and food will work wonders, but she must be removed home without delay. What a beautiful faced and magnificently proportioned woman! You know where she lives?"

"I do not. Ah! here is a little pocketbook that has fallen from her hand. Perhaps it may contain her address."

"Look and see. This is no time for foolish scruples."

A card, bearing name and number, was found in the moneyless purse. Whether hers or not no one knew. It was, however, their only clue, and, acting upon it, the still insensible girl was carried to a carriage and hurried away from the gaping crowd.

The neighborhood was of the class denominated, "shabby genteel;" the house was one of the most unpretentious, evidently occupied by several families. Inquiry elicited the information that the girl did live there, and the strong armed physician and artist gently transported her up the narrow and creaking stairs, followed by half a dozen excited women.

The pushing open of a door revealed a room scrupulously clean, but sadly wanting in even ordinary comforts. A bed, table and a couple of chairs comprised the furniture. "Ethel," came in feeble accents from an occupant of the former, "how very long you have been away. Did you bring any—Merciful Heaven, what has happened! Oh, my daughter, my dear daughter!" and the sufferer sobbed piteously.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

"Do you think" was questioned with painful flushing of cheeks, "that any good woman can—I cannot go on."

"Art is an education. Some women of the highest rank and purest lives have permitted their beauty of form, as well as face, to be perpetuated by brush and chisel."

"I could not—could not; would die first!"

He smiled mysteriously and turned the subject, avoided giving her an answer as to how she could repay him, and departed, dreaming of a face and figure that (in his opinion) more than rivaled those of the world famed Venus Medici.

THEATRICAL RECORD.

Movements, Business, Incidents and Biographies of the Dramatic, Musical, Minstrel and Circus Professions.

NEW YORK, APRIL 29, 1890.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

Dispatches from Clipper Correspondents on the Opening Night of the Current Week.

WIRED FROM 'FRISCO.

The Grand Opera House Dark—"Shenandoah's" Hit-A Death, etc.

[Special Dispatch to the New York Clipper.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—Hermann's Trans Atlanticques got a big reception at the Baldwin last evening, and fully deserved all the applause bestowed by the immense audience who welcomed this high-class company. The advance sale is very large, and their three weeks' stay should turn out very profitable. Rhea comes May 19, for one week.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The New York "Shenandoah" Co. commenced a three weeks' engagement last night. There were no seats to be obtained at eight o'clock. The company and scenic effects made an immense hit, and the formal offering to the favorites were gorgeous. E. Southern follows May 19.

BUSH STREET THEATRE.—Poor business was the result of "Zigzag's" trial during the week closing 26, and the opening performance Monday night, 28, did not offer much encouragement for the current week. "Paul Bunyan" follows May 10, with W. H. Crane heavily unengaged.

BRIEFLETS.—Charles Morrell, a banjoist, died here 26. The Grand Opera House is dark, having been engaged on account of poor business. By the Clipper's arrangement a four weeks' engagement here May 5-19. Jo Jo, the dog-faced man, has recently been exhibited at the Orpheum. "Nip and Tuck" was presented at Moroso's recently. Miss Cooper has been given a husband, Alton Ladd. James M. Ward has been dangerously ill. Her Drayton, Agnes Thornton and Nasine appeared at the Wigwam last week. John S. Grier's "Ma and Tita" opened their last night. Rita and Gertie's "Sister" is to open May 1. "The Girl of May 5" and "Pastor and Roberts" made their first appearance at the Bush Union last evening. Prof. Baldwin, balloonist, has been engaged to appear at Denver May 1. D'orsay Ordon arrived here from Australia 1.

BOSTON'S GOOD SHOWING.

The Week Opens Promisingly at Nearly All the Playhouses.

[Special Dispatch to the New York Clipper.]

BOSTON, April 29.—A. M. Palmer's Co. opened in "Aunt Jack" at the Tremont last night to a tremendous house. The play was superbly presented, and made a triumphant success. Agnes Booth received a royal ovation, and recalls were abundant. There was a profusion of flowers.

Richard Mansfield, in "The Frenchman," drew a fine audience to the Boston. The opening of the last week of "The Prince and the Pauper" at the Hollis called forth a crowded house. "The Paymaster" packed the Grand Opera. The piece was splendidly staged and acted. "All the Compts of Home, at the Museum." Its name has assumed a definite and exact meaning. "The Gondoliers" at the Globe. "La Tosca" was done by Fannie Davenport at an up-to-date theatre, a medium house.

Melodrama and olio at the Grand. "The Merchant of Venice" at the Bijou. Keith's variety and the dime-snows were finely put-on. The week began large all around.

Richard Mansfield, who has been suffering from throat trouble for the last few days, underwent an operation at the Massachusetts General Hospital, and was temporarily forbidden to play. "Dr. Jekyll" and "Mr. Hyde" after me. Friday and Saturday, for which he is ill, as the strain on his throat is too great. It was only after much persuasion that the doctors consented to let him resume, but after the first week, "Dr. Jekyll" and "Mr. Hyde" will be given up altogether, or at all events for years.

PHILADELPHIA PROSPERS.

Some Very Large Audiences, and No Very Small Ones.

[Special Dispatch to the New York Clipper.]

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—If somewhat smaller than the usual opening attendance, the audiences last night were still of comfortable size, and in a few instances too large for the house. This was the case at the Chestnut Street Opera House, where Ang. Daly's Co. introduced their production of "As You Like It" to a brilliant and appreciative audience. The same condition of affairs prevailed at the Walnut, where the joint appearance of M. B. Curtis and Lewis Morrison, in "The Shætchen," drew a great crowd. No less in size and quality was the audience at the "Rehearsal of the 'Doubt'." At the Park, there was a large audience to welcome the back of the phenomenal "Fauntleroy." The revival of "Ermine" by Aronson's Casino Co. drew a great crowd. "The Hole in the Ground" attracted a good house to an medium house.

"The Old Maid of Castleton" had a bumper at the Bijou. The Henry Burlesque Co. turned people away from the "Circus" and "Lovers' Lane." "On the Frontier" drew two packed houses. Harry's Good attended at the Casino and World's Museum.

George Dallal, late advertiser of the World's Museum, was next season with Williams' "Our Meteors," as manager.

PITTSBURG, April 29.—"A Dark Secret" was greeted at the Grand Opera House by an excellent house.

Edgar Harrigan, in "Old Lavender," had a bumper at the Bijou. The Henry Burlesque Co. turned people away from the "Circus" and "Lovers' Lane." "On the Frontier" drew two packed houses. Harry's Good attended at the Casino and World's Museum.

George Dallal, late advertiser of the World's Museum, was next season with Williams' "Our Meteors," as manager.

WILMINGTON, April 29.—At the Bijou, "The Old Maid of Castleton" had a bumper at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

MILWAUKEE, April 29.—Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

DETROIT, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U. T. C." had big attendance. At the Bijou, "The Star" had a good house. At the Pavilion, variety opened the summer season last night. Chas. Monck is the manager.

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Aiden Benedict, in "Fableton," pleased a very large house at the Bijou. "Josie Loane" in "Lovers' Lane," "The Star," with Phillips' "U.

THE THEATRE IN AMERICA.

Its Rise and Progress during a Period of 156 Years—A Succinct History of Our Famous Plays, Players and Playhouses—Opening Bills, Casts of Characters, Lives of Distinguished Actors and Actresses, Notable Debuts, Deaths, Fairs, Etc.

Written for The New York Clipper by COL. T. ALLSTON BROWN.
(COPYRIGHTED, 1850, BY THE AUTHOR.)

THE NEW YORK STAGE.

Empire Hall
was located at 590 Broadway, and adjoined the Metropolitan Hotel. In February, 1853, it was occupied by Banvard's Pilgrimage to Jerusalem and Holy Land. May 12, 1856, the Keeler Troupe commenced with tableaux and musical soirees. Gustave Dedans commenced with regular dramatic performances in September, with a French company. A series of paintings, representing scenes in Dr. Kane's Arctic voyages, were on exhibition Oct. 12, 1857. The place was afterward known as

The Santa Claus,
and R. W. Williams was the manager. He remained here until the lease expired, January, 1859, when he removed to 72 Prince Street.

The Maze Garden
was situated on Fifth Avenue, opposite the entrance to the Croton Reservoir. The Garden occupied two acres of ground, covered with a large growth of deciduous and evergreen trees and shrubs, adorned with arbors and fountains, and surrounded by glassy slopes, effectively combining the beauties of nature and art. In the main building upon the premises were two refreshment saloons, commodious piazzas. The most attractive feature of the Garden was the maze or labyrinths, constructed after the plan of the one in Hampton Court, London, formed in the early part of King William's reign and the only one in the country. Ice cream and other refreshments were served. No spirituous or intoxicating liquors were sold. It was open every day, commencing July 1, 1853, from 8 A. M. until sunset. The entrance to the Garden was free. Mitchell & Co. were managers.

Washington Circus
was a canvas show located on the corner of Sixth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street, in the immediate vicinity of the Crystal Palace. It was opened June 15, 1853, by Col. Alvah Mann, formerly manager of the old Broadway Theatre. Miss Tourmairie, the Antonio Family, W. H. Carroll and Mrs. Miss Carroll (afterwards Mrs. Ben Maginley) were in the company.

The Crystal Palace,
located in Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue, was inaugurated July 14, 1853. It covered five acres. Its sides were composed of glass, supported by iron. There were present: Gen. Franklin Pierce, President of the United States. Members of the Cabinet—Jefferson Davis, Secretary of War; James Guthrie, Secretary of Treasury; Caleb Cushing, Attorney General. United States Senate—Salmon P. Chase, Senator from Ohio; Richard Broadhead, of Pennsylvania. Officers of the army—Major Gen. Winfield Scott, Commander in Chief; Gen. John Wool and others. Officers of the Navy—Gen. George H. Stewart and others. Officers of the War Commission—John N. J. Gov. Howell Cobb, State Georgia; R. T. Rev. Jonathan M. Wainwright, D. D., Provincial Bishop of N. Y.; R. T. Rev. Henry G. Whitehouse, D. D., Bishop of Illinois; Gardner Spring, D. B., Wm. Adams, D. D., and others. Judge Betts, Judge Edmunds, Oakley, Roosevelt, Sandford and Emmet; Major Gen. Sandford, Brig. Gen. Hall, Brig. Gen. Morris and Major Gen. Staff, Whitworth and Wallace, of the English Commission. Lord Ellenborough and Alexander, Minister of Foreign Affairs, from Mexico; M. de Sartaget, Minister Plenipotentiary from France; M. de Osma, Minister Plenipotentiary from Peru; Jacob A. Westervelt, Mayor of New York; Francis R. Tilson, Recorder of City New York; Richard T. Compton, President of the Board of Aldermen; Jonathan Trotter, President of the Board of Assistants; the Common Council; Isaac N. Fowler, Postmaster of New York; Rev. Dr. Firth, Chancellor of the University. There were no Foreign Commissioners, except the Earl of Ellesmere. There were two military bands—Dodgeworth's and Biondi's. Biondi's was an orchestra and Nott's Military Band a grand chorus. The audience was very large, with about 20,000 people. The U. S. Band struck up "Yankee Doodle." This was followed by a prayer by Bishop Wainwright. Then came the hymn, "Old Hundred," set to semi-secular words, by the Second Harmonic Society, with Geo. Bristow as conductor; Mr. Timm, chief director of the musical arrangements. Theodore Sedgwick, president of the Crystal Palace Association, then addressed President Pierce. June 15, 1854, there was a "musical congress." M. Julian was the conductor. This lasted a benefit here and made the last appearance in America. June 15, 1855, he first and only benefit in America. The place was closed. During the removal of the goods and the sales by auction visitors were admitted at twelve and a half cents each. This edifice started in its delicate beauty from the earth like the "imaging of happy vision. Viewed at a distance, its burnished dome resembled a half disclosed balloon, as large as a cathedral, but light, brilliant and seemingly ready to burst its bands and soar aloft. Nothing like this building, in shape or size, material or effect, was ever before, or since, has been seen in America. It was two stories high. The first was the hall of reception, the second being seven stories high. The centre of this was 48ft. high. The four corners of the octagon were furnished with two towers, 70ft. high. These towers supported flagstaffs. The construction of the building was similar to that of the original in London. The main building covered 173,000 square feet, galleries included, and the additional building 33,000, being 206,000 in all. The additional building was composed of a first and second story, gallery, 21ft. broad and 45ft. long, lighted from above, the sides being closed up, so as to form a suitable place to exhibit pictures and statuary. This additional building was covered with the main one in two one-story wings, which contained the refreshment rooms and the mineralogical departments. There were twelve stairways, the balustrades of which were light iron tracery. The stairways were at each point of the compass, at the sides and under the dome. Walls, properly speaking, the building had not, being enclosed with glass sustained by iron pillars. This mass of crystal occupied 45,000 square feet. The cast iron weighed 1,200 tons, the wrought iron 300. Each pane of glass was 16 by 38 inches. The prevailing style of the architecture was Moorish and Byzantine in its decorations. The colors were painted in monograms, in blue, white, red and cream color. Greenough was the decorative artist. There were three entrances to the Palace, all alike, one on Sixth Avenue, one on Forth and one on Forty-second Street. Each entrance was 47ft. wide, the central have 41ft. wide, and the aisles 54ft. The dome was 100ft. across. Though not nearly as large as that of London, the building was superior in architectural beauty. The plates were given in July, accepted in August and operations commenced in November. There were 1,000,000 cubic feet of stone, the size of the structure and beauty of all nations. The twenty-ninth annual fair of the American Institute opened here Sept. 15, 1857. The Committee on Lands and Plans of the Board of Aldermen, at a meeting, April 2, 1856, decided to report adversely to the petition asking an extension of the Crystal Palace lease. The original lease was granted for five years, and had till Jan. 13, 1857, to run. Several owners of property in the vicinity of the palace appeared before the committee, and remonstrated against an extension of the lease. The ground of their remonstrance was that they bought their lots in the corporation at a public auction, under the representation that the ground occupied by the palace was to be laid out as a public park. It was destroyed by fire Oct. 5, 1858. The site is now called Bryant Park.

Broadway Museum and Menagerie was situated at 337 Broadway. These premises had been fitted up very handsomely, and were opened Nov. 21, 1853, with a collection of living wild animals, including the rhinoceros, elephant, Hannibal, lions, tigers, leopards, bears and zebras, also Herr Driesbach, the lion king; the Siamese Twins, Chang and Eng, and Mr. Nellis, the man without arms, were to be seen. This place closed April 15, 1854.

Washington Hall, located at 103, 106, 107 Elizabeth Street, near Grand, was occupied Nov. 6, 1853, by a German opera troupe. The place was inaugurated as such by Adolphus Liberati with the opera of "Das Nachblager in Grenada."

Apollo Rooms,

located on the east side of Broadway, below Canal and opposite Lispenard Street. It was used for various exhibitions, such as concerts, lectures, panoramas, etc. It was at one time called the American Art Union. It was afterwards converted into a concert and ball room, and so continued until it was torn down.

World Hall

was a place of amusement located at 377 and 379 Broadway, corner of White Street. Prof. Hart's panorama and diorama of the whole world was on exhibition here April, 1854.

The Grand Street (Franklin Museum)
place of amusement was situated at 127 Grand Street, up stairs, one door from Broadway. It was owned by James Mulligan, who kept a liquor store next door. He also carried on horse-dealing in the basement of 127 Grand. The first floor was occupied by a Mr. Pardee, who kept a concert saloon. The entire upper part of the building was occupied by Geo. Lea, who leased the place at the close of his management of 53 Bowery (April, 1854), and named it the Franklin Museum. The principal attractions were model artists. On Dec. 7, 1857, there were twenty-seven "adies" under the direction of Miss Wharton, who appeared afternoon and evening each day in the week (except Sunday) in fourteen living representations of statuary, introducing "The Graces," "Venus arising from the Sea," "Bathers," "Promised," etc. The admission was: Orchestra seats, 50cts.; boxes, 25cts. George Lea continued not have been closed, as an offer has been made by the Drury Lane management to present the play in September, and the American managers prefer to open the London season with it.

Justice Barrett, of the Supreme Court, April 22, approved the certificate of incorporation of "The American Dramatic Authors' Society," which has been formed "to advance and promote the interests of writers for the stage in America." The trustees are Charles Barnard, T. W. King, William Gill, Herbert Hall Winslow and Howard P. Taylor. These and C. A. Byrne, Leonard Grover, Alfred Thompson, Robert Fraser, Leander P. Richardson, Arthur Wallock and W. H. Sedley Brown are the incorporators.

The make up of the Elfin Comedy Co. is as follows: Ed. G. Bourne, manager; Lon Beasley, Frank Moon, C. W. Spicher, Errol McDonald, Corse Peyton, Prof. Moody, Dora Bourne, Kate Sefton and Lida Wells.

Attractive Helen Leslie has been engaged for next season to play Gertrude Ellington in the road "Shenandoah" Co. Miss Leslie should easily make a fine success of this role. She is now in this city, but will shortly go to New Hampshire for the summer.

The New Academy of Music, Wilmington, Del., is rapidly approaching completion, and will give that city one of the handsomest and most complete theatres in the Middle States. The auditorium is to be very rich, and, with its eight boxes, the house will seat nearly 1,600 persons. H. E. Dixey, in "The Seven Ages," will dedicate the house May 21, and the Gailey Co. will begin at the Broadway Theatre, this city, Nov. 24 next, and the engagement here will be for six weeks. The company will then visit the larger cities and go to San Francisco from that port in the June steamer for Australia, where a tour will be made under the direction of J. C. Williamson, and the company will reach London in time to open at the Gailey in November 1891. The new burlesque, "Buy Blue, or the Blue Rose," will be presented by the organization, with "John d'Arc," and "Monte Carlo," Miss Huntington's tour of this country will begin Sept. 29, at the Tremont Theatre, Boston. Both these tours have been arranged by Managers' International Agency.

— Adele and Mathilde Aus Der Ohe sailed for Germany from this city April 25.

Albany, N. Y., friends of Mme. Albani gave her an ovation April 25. At a serenade tendered her on her fifth full year people assembled. Mme. Albani, with her husband, Ernest Gye, and some friends, heard the serenade from the balcony. At one o'clock Mme. Albani visited the High School, and was most heartily greeted. In response to the applause she sang "Sweet Home, Sweet Home." Lily Gilligan, wife of the school, thanked the singer, and tendered her a magnificent basket of flowers, the gift of the school. The impulsive artist burst into tears, seized the girl in her arms and kissed her repeatedly. Mr. Gye expressed Mme. Albani's thanks for the gift.

Bessie Cleveland and Marie Marion are fate announcements for John H. Russell's "City Directory" Co., the full make up of the company for next season now being: Charlie Reed, Wm. Hall Collier, Ignacio Martineti, Wm. P. Mack, Alfred Hampton, Charles V. Seaman, Bert Heaverly, Joseph Jackson, May Irwin, Flora Irwin, Anna Glezer, Rose Prince, Beside Cleveland, Maria Farrar, treasurer. The company will play the Pacific Coast after closing at the Bijou, under Al Hayman's management. Manager J. W. Rosequist has arranged to play "The City Directory" and "Easy Street" at the Bijou for six months next season. Treasurer Farrar is very proud of the fact that he was made a life member of Boston Lodge of Elks six months before Charlie Reed received the same honor.

Francis Abbotton Wright, late of the Bostonians, was married at Boston recently to Frank Parker, leading role in "A Domestic Cyclone," to be produced May 5, at the Lee Avenue Academy, Williamsburg, N. Y.

— Branch O'Brien is in advance of "The Charity Ball" Co., which opens its tour May 25, at Middlebury, N. Y.

— Clara Suberman and Lester Victor were married at New Orleans, March 27.

— "The Inspector," W. R. Wilson's new local play, will not be produced until next November, at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, this city.

— It is positively denied that Daniel Daly and Joseph Ott will jointly star next season in "The Grab Bag," under W. A. White's management.

— Fred Mayer, a cousin of Marcus Mayer, will be with the Elfin Comedy Co. for next season.

— The Clipper Quartet have been re-engaged by Fred Brooks will sail for Europe early in May.

— William Faversham has been engaged to play Clement Hale in "Sweet Lavender."

— Adelaide Randall has been re-engaged for the American Opera Co., whose season commences at the Grand Opera House, Philadelphia, early in June. Miss Randall is now at her attractive home in this city, and is enjoying her visits to the theatres.

— Arthur C. Alston is to do the advance work for Maude Granger's tour, and will shortly leave this at Charles White's Music Hall (formerly Bryant's). He will quit the stage. He was doorman just prior to his death at Tony Pastor's Opera House, 201 Bowery. He died in destitute circumstances. An appeal for assistance was made to the profession, and ten dollars from Sam Hague was every dollar received. In his hour of need his "friends" forgot him. This theatre was destroyed by fire Jan. 20, 1857.

— The American Varieties, located at 7 Chatham Square, corner of Mott Street, was a large saloon, formerly occupied as an "American Steam Ice Cream Saloon." It was afterwards refitted and opened by Prof. Leon as proprietor. S. T. Baylis, assistant manager; F. Sherman, director of amusements, Sept. 3, 1854. A stage was erected, and performances were given in magic, performing canary birds, also a negro minstrel troupe during the doctors forced his arm back, making it straight, but in doing so snapped some of the tendons, from which up to his death (which occurred in this city Feb. 4, 1869) he suffered constant pain. On the afternoon of April 18, 1867, he took a benefit at Charles White's Music Hall (formerly Bryant's). He had quit the stage. He was doorman just prior to his death at Tony Pastor's Opera House, 201 Bowery. He died in destitute circumstances. An appeal for assistance was made to the profession, and ten dollars from Sam Hague was every dollar received. In his hour of need his "friends" forgot him. This theatre was destroyed by fire Jan. 20, 1857.

— The Academy of Music was located on the northeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Irving Place. When this house was projected it was estimated that $200,000 would be ample for building such a theatre. Of this amount $100,000 was subscribed and paid in. Instead of $200,000, $150,000 was given, in consequence of the illness of Mr. Smith, the champion soloist. He was compelled to retire from the profession about 1866, in consequence of an abscess that formed in his right breast, which, after being operated upon, affected him in his right arm, drawing it up so that it was impossible to shake the hand anymore. He went to the hospital, and, under the direction of the doctors, the arm was cut off, and the shoulder joint removed. The doctors forced his arm back, making it straight, but in doing so snapped some of the tendons, from which up to his death (which occurred in this city Feb. 4, 1869) he suffered constant pain. On the afternoon of April 18, 1867, he took a benefit at Charles White's Music Hall (formerly Bryant's). He had quit the stage. He was doorman just prior to his death at Tony Pastor's Opera House, 201 Bowery. He died in destitute circumstances. An appeal for assistance was made to the profession, and ten dollars from Sam Hague was every dollar received. In his hour of need his "friends" forgot him. This theatre was destroyed by fire Jan. 20, 1857.

— The American Varieties, located at 7 Chatham Square, corner of Mott Street, was a large saloon, formerly occupied as an "American Steam Ice Cream Saloon." It was afterwards refitted and opened by Prof. Leon as proprietor. S. T. Baylis, assistant manager; F. Sherman, director of amusements, Sept. 3, 1854. A stage was erected, and performances were given in magic, performing canary birds, also a negro minstrel troupe during the doctors forced his arm back, making it straight, but in doing so snapped some of the tendons, from which up to his death (which occurred in this city Feb. 4, 1869) he suffered constant pain. On the afternoon of April 18, 1867, he took a benefit at Charles White's Music Hall (formerly Bryant's). He had quit the stage. He was doorman just prior to his death at Tony Pastor's Opera House, 201 Bowery. He died in destitute circumstances. An appeal for assistance was made to the profession, and ten dollars from Sam Hague was every dollar received. In his hour of need his "friends" forgot him. This theatre was destroyed by fire Jan. 20, 1857.

— The Academy of Music was located on the northeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Irving Place. When this house was projected it was estimated that $200,000 would be ample for building such a theatre. Of this amount $100,000 was subscribed and paid in. Instead of $200,000, $150,000 was given, in consequence of the illness of Mr. Smith, the champion soloist. He was compelled to retire from the profession about 1866, in consequence of an abscess that formed in his right breast, which, after being operated upon, affected him in his right arm, drawing it up so that it was impossible to shake the hand anymore. He went to the hospital, and, under the direction of the doctors, the arm was cut off, and the shoulder joint removed. The doctors forced his arm back, making it straight, but in doing so snapped some of the tendons, from which up to his death (which occurred in this city Feb. 4, 1869) he suffered constant pain. On the afternoon of April 18, 1867, he took a benefit at Charles White's Music Hall (formerly Bryant's). He had quit the stage. He was doorman just prior to his death at Tony Pastor's Opera House, 201 Bowery. He died in destitute circumstances. An appeal for assistance was made to the profession, and ten dollars from Sam Hague was every dollar received. In his hour of need his "friends" forgot him. This theatre was destroyed by fire Jan. 20, 1857.

— The Academy of Music was located on the northeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Irving Place. When this house was projected it was estimated that $200,000 would be ample for building such a theatre. Of this amount $100,000 was subscribed and paid in. Instead of $200,000, $150,000 was given, in consequence of the illness of Mr. Smith, the champion soloist. He was compelled to retire from the profession about 1866, in consequence of an abscess that formed in his right breast, which, after being operated upon, affected him in his right arm, drawing it up so that it was impossible to shake the hand anymore. He went to the hospital, and, under the direction of the doctors, the arm was cut off, and the shoulder joint removed. The doctors forced his arm back, making it straight, but in doing so snapped some of the tendons, from which up to his death (which occurred in this city Feb. 4, 1869) he suffered constant pain. On the afternoon of April 18, 1867, he took a benefit at Charles White's Music Hall (formerly Bryant's). He had quit the stage. He was doorman just prior to his death at Tony Pastor's Opera House, 201 Bowery. He died in destitute circumstances. An appeal for assistance was made to the profession, and ten dollars from Sam Hague was every dollar received. In his hour of need his "friends" forgot him. This theatre was destroyed by fire Jan. 20, 1857.

— The Academy of Music was located on the northeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Irving Place. When this house was projected it was estimated that $200,000 would be ample for building such a theatre. Of this amount $100,000 was subscribed and paid in. Instead of $200,000, $150,000 was given, in consequence of the illness of Mr. Smith, the champion soloist. He was compelled to retire from the profession about 1866, in consequence of an abscess that formed in his right breast, which, after being operated upon, affected him in his right arm, drawing it up so that it was impossible to shake the hand anymore. He went to the hospital, and, under the direction of the doctors, the arm was cut off, and the shoulder joint removed. The doctors forced his arm back, making it straight, but in doing so snapped some of the tendons, from which up to his death (which occurred in this city Feb. 4, 1869) he suffered constant pain. On the afternoon of April 18, 1867, he took a benefit at Charles White's Music Hall (formerly Bryant's). He had quit the stage. He was doorman just prior to his death at Tony Pastor's Opera House, 201 Bowery. He died in destitute circumstances. An appeal for assistance was made to the profession, and ten dollars from Sam Hague was every dollar received. In his hour of need his "friends" forgot him. This theatre was destroyed by fire Jan. 20, 1857.

— The Academy of Music was located on the northeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Irving Place. When this house was projected it was estimated that $200,000 would be ample for building such a theatre. Of this amount $100,000 was subscribed and paid in. Instead of $200,000, $150,000 was given, in consequence of the illness of Mr. Smith, the champion soloist. He was compelled to retire from the profession about 1866, in consequence of an abscess that formed in his right breast, which, after being operated upon, affected him in his right arm, drawing it up so that it was impossible to shake the hand anymore. He went to the hospital, and, under the direction of the doctors, the arm was cut off, and the shoulder joint removed. The doctors forced his arm back, making it straight, but in doing so snapped some of the tendons, from which up to his death (which occurred in this city Feb. 4, 1869) he suffered constant pain. On the afternoon of April 18, 1867, he took a benefit at Charles White's Music Hall (formerly Bryant's). He had quit the stage. He was doorman just prior to his death at Tony Pastor's Opera House, 201 Bowery. He died in destitute circumstances. An appeal for assistance was made to the profession, and ten dollars from Sam Hague was every dollar received. In his hour of need his "friends" forgot him. This theatre was destroyed by fire Jan. 20, 1857.

— The Academy of Music was located on the northeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Irving Place. When this house was projected it was estimated that $200,000 would be ample for building such a theatre. Of this amount $100,000 was subscribed and paid in. Instead of $200,000, $150,000 was given, in consequence of the illness of Mr. Smith, the champion soloist. He was compelled to retire from the profession about 1866, in consequence of an abscess that formed in his right breast, which, after being operated upon, affected him in his right arm, drawing it up so that it was impossible to shake the hand anymore. He went to the hospital, and, under the direction of the doctors, the arm was

IN MEMORY OF JULIA DEAN.

A correspondent, "J. L. T.," writing from St Louis, Mo., under date of April 23, says: The Missouri Historical Society held a brilliant commemorative meeting last night, to honor the memory of Julia Dean, the occasion being the presentation of her portrait. Dr. O'Reilly gave a biographical sketch of the actress. O. W. Collet, who has long been collecting materials for her life, read—if impassioned declamation with a manuscript in hand can be called reading—one of the most scholarly addresses in manner and matter, and most interesting to which I have ever listened, holding his audience spellbound during the half hour he recited. At an appropriate point, he recited, with much feeling and charmingly, the subjoined poem. Fannie Engleman, a talented young girl of St. Louis, of fine appearance and some experience in theatricals and declamation, delivered a poem entitled "Sweet Julia Dean," a considerable poem as metrical composition, and rendered with such effecting effect that the audience who have insisted upon a repetition, had the President, Dr. Prentiss, of Theistic Post, allowed it. Of the volume, Col. Richard Ennis spoke at some length and well: Senator D. H. Armstrong and Hon. Alex. P. Gresham, as personal acquaintances of Julia Dean, made brief remarks, approving what Mr. Collet had said; Judge Samuel Treat, late of the United States District Court, closed a brilliant meeting with the following address: "I am a retired judge, and reticence best becomes me. Mr. Collet has expressed my sentiments adequately. I knew the woman in my young days as an actress and personally, and I admired her in both qualities; as a woman, if the word be allowable, I loved her." The poem referred to is as follows:

JULIA DEAN'S PORTRAIT.
Of course, the form remains,
And evermore remain,
To take on life again.
Now, sudden, beams a light
In mem'ry's deep recess—
Reveals an image bright,
That seems to set this
And through the rifting years
The distant past appears.
And present seems to be:
With joy my heart it thrills,
With love my heart it fills—
Yester days come back to me
How pleasant shines the sun!
How balmy is the air!
How bright to look upon!
A world so fresh and fair!
Her beauty charmed our eyes,
Her smile our hearts in praise;
But most admired, as wise
In woman's honest ways.
Her maiden days are past—
Bezins the double life
With hopes of joy to last—
No joy she knew as wife.
To make a brook run down,
And dead is wrong done.
Oh, would I had the art,
To blot out years of woe!
I knew her well in youth,
And loved because of worth.
And when her years were givin',
The years now white my head.
And long is Julia dead.
But love survives her grave.

VAUDEVILLES AND THE MINSTRELS.

NOTES FROM CLEVELAND'S MAGNIFICENTS.—April 17, at Portland, we took the boat for Astoria, Ore., leaving behind our manager and his secretary, Mr. English. Mr. Cleveland left Portland April 18, to join his "Consolidated" at Chicago. Mrs. Cleveland remains here, in case of emergency. Harry Semon is called back to manage us through to the close of our season. When we landed here this A. M., we found every seat in the house sold, and Mr. Semon is squeezing fifty more chairs in by crowding the orchestra under the stage. Our business in Portland was big, and we certainly will not say "fall" through the northern towns. The contracts for next season are about filled for all the companies. The first part sets are completed, and will open the season of 1890-91 as brilliant as we are closing the present one. Sweeney and Rice are repeating triumphs they made on a former trip. Harry Howard has a beautiful waltz song which has caught on. The climate agrees with all our vocalists, excepting Mr. Nankeville, who has been suffering with his throat lately. Mr. O'Keefe hit them very hard at Portland with "Jack Won't Forget You," and Raymond Shaw is entitled to a laurel wreath on encores received upon his rendition of "A Curl From the Baby's Head." Fishing has commenced, and rods are brought out, while guys are quietly being packed away. The Crawfords, Hanley, Jarvis and McKissick are pleasing in the first part, and are gaining victories in the olio. Mrs. Bunnell's musical act is next to the corn-gollians, and calls for a double encore. Mr. Sommers, our interlocutor, has received news of extreme illness at home, and may be obliged to leave us. Mr. Sweatnam has finished a beautiful oil painting of Mount Hood at sunset, as seen from Portland, and is receiving congratulations in profusion. We leave tonight by boat, then rail to Olympia, which is our last town in Oregon. Washington and British Columbia come next in order. Mr. Mattos is ahead, covering up every wall possible to reach with the paper of the "Magnificents." His work is doubly hard, now that Mr. Semon is promoted to handle managerial reins. All send greetings to THE CLIPPER.

NOTES FROM PRIMROSE & WEST'S MINSTRELS.—We are now playing the New England Circuit. It is being our second visit this season to some of the cities. Our business continues large, and the finish of this season promises to be far above that of former years. We go to the new Grand Opera House, Philadelphia, for our closing week, May 12, following the Emma Juch Opera Co., which opens that elegant new house. Already the affairs for the season of 1890-91 are well enough advanced to bode great results. The members of this season's company will be widely separated next season and many new faces will be seen. Everybody is well, in for the language of the "Red" Mage, "it is impossible to get sick in this show, what with the ballplaying and partying continually on hand."

WILL A. MYERS is happy over his new baby boy, born March 29.

J. MELVILLE JOHNSON, who is to be with Primrose & West's Minstrels next season, recently received copyright papers for two sketches, "Log Cabin Neighbors" and "A Bridgeman's Mistake," or the Coon That Married for Money." He expects to put on both sketches the coming season.

THE trained dog, "Dixie," died recently at St. Louis, Mo. This canine was the property of Thos. Fey. He had been on the stage nearly fifteen years, and was well known throughout the country.

LORNA RICE informs us of her success as a male impersonator in new lines of business for her.

HENRY LA ROSE, of the La Rose Bros., informs us that he does not go on the road this season on account of severe losses. La Rose, professionally known as Freddie Arlington, presented her husband with a baby girl, March 6.

GEORGE E. HOMER continues to work alone. He started for the Pacific Coast April 21.

THE KASTEN SISTERS are visiting in this city, and were recently CLIPPER callers.

THE TWIN BROTHERS WEMS and the Sisters Coyne join Harry Williams' Co. next season.

Recent photographs of Billy Emerson show that the popular comedian has lost no share of the good looks which have been abundantly his these many years.

DR. NEVADA NORTON is busy making preparations for the regular tenting season of his Choctaw Indian Medicine Co., of which he will send out about fifteen this season. Manager Norton was presented by his wife with an 8lb boy baby, April 10, and he reports all as doing well.

CHAS. AND LILLIE WESTON are both very sick and confined to their bed. They wish to dispose of all their musical instruments, wardrobe, wigs, etc., and would like to have their friends call on them at 110 East One Hundred and Seventh Street, this city. Mrs. Weston is very low, and Mrs. Weston has just passed through a painful surgical operation.

A. ENGEL, of the People's Theatre, Milwaukee, and of two Chicago places of amusement, was a CLIPPER caller April 26. He is in the city securing attractions for the coming season.

EDDIE COLLIER is giving dancing lessons at No. 46 Clinton Place, this city, not No. 26, as announced last week. He has a number of prominent professors under his tuition at present.

NICK FOSTER, manager of Jo Jo and Unzle, arrived at San Francisco from Australia April 12, and opened at the Orpheum 21 for two weeks. For nearly a year Mr. Foster had been touring Australia with Jo Jo. Unzle is a white Moor he found during his travels in the Antipodes.

PROF. H. H. WELLS has taken Alex. Davis' place with Curran & H. H. Wels' Royal Circus.

GEORGE WILSON'S MINSTRELS will close a most successful season May 5, at Mount Sterling, Ky. It is said to have been the most profitable season. George Wilson has ever had, this being particularly so in the South.

CHAR. SCHIEDELL, of Schiedell Bros. Museum, en route from Baltimore to Boston, was a CLIPPER caller April 26. He reported good business.

JEFFREYS PENNY claims that she did not receive her salary at the Woman's Theatre, Denver, Col.

BOB BRANIGAN, formerly of Cort and Branigan, and Chas. J. Mack, late of Allen and Mack, have joined hands, and will do a black face comedy act the coming season. The team will be known as Branigan and Mack.

The mother of Tom Lewis, of the American Four, died in this city April 24, and his place at the team was filled by Pete Gale, one of the four. Chas. Girard and Earle, took Mr. Gale's place, besides doing his own turn with his partner, at Miner's Boyer's Theatre, where both teams were playing.

THE TWO VITROS, of Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels, sail for Europe in June. Will Vito, Chas. Abbott and Harry Leighton recently joined Burlington, Ia. Lodge, B. P. O. E. No. 54.

JOHN N. RUSSELL has resigned his position as manager of the Clinton Street Theatre, Trenton, N. J., and is now running a fine saloon on Broad Street, that city.

HOWARD POWERS is resting at Chicago.

CLARA LAWRENCE has joined the Lilly Clay Burlesque Co. for the remainder of the season.

MACKIN, CURDIE AND BELL have been engaged at Atlantic City, N. J., for the Summer beginning June 16.

SOME NEW PRODUCTIONS.

"The Shatthen" Originally Acted at the Lyceum Theatre, Rochester, April 21.

Henry Dibble and Chas. S. Dickson, authors of "The Shatthen," in presenting scenes and incidents of every day, have endeavored to depict the Hebrew as he really exists, with both his false and good qualities, in his social and business intercourse with his fellow man. "The Shatthen" is a coined word of German and Hebrew origin, and its literal translation signifies a "marriage broker;" a certain individual whose business it is to bring about desirable marriages for a commission, and the introduction of Meyer Petowsky, the Shatthen, furnishes the humorous element of the play. Joseph Lewis, a wealthy Hebrew clothier, and James Nickerson, an American banker and broker, have been friends and perfect friends from early manhood. The clothier's son, Leo, has been reared in the faith of his father, but with more progressive ideas, and, unlike his orthodox parents, does not believe in all the tenets and customs of the Mosiac faith. Prior to the opening of the story, the clothier's son and the banker's eldest daughter, Edith, had been secretly married. Through a series of unfortunate speculations, the banker—Nickerson—is on the verge of ruin, and his financial troubles are brought to a crisis through the treachery of an adventures, who extorts a large sum of money by means of a secret which she possesses. The news of the failure is conveyed to his friend Lewis, who a large deposit in the Nickelodeon, by Meyer Petowsky, the Shatthen, good naturedly tells Hebrew, who knows everybody's business, and the Hebrew is always ready to earn a commission, either by selling goods, acting as an assignee or arranging marriages. The Hebrew clothier, prompted by his high regard and esteem for the Christian banker, proffers his financial aid, but the examination of his accounts discloses the fact that Nickerson has appropriated the funds of a Hebrew charitable institution of which Lewis is the custodian. He demands restitution, and unless made, threatens an immediate prosecution. Edith, the young wife, who has entered unobserved, overhears the conversation and implores the clothier to be merciful and as a last resort, if the secret of her marriage is discovered, to let her go. The Shatthen, who has been brought to the scene of the secret marriage, is greatly alarmed, and is commanded by his father to deny Edith's allegation. Leo acknowledges Edith as his wife, and is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into his presence, and Meyer is disowned and discarded by his father. The shock caused by his son's apostacy culminates in a long and serious illness, during which he is tenderly nursed and cared for by Meyer Petowsky. When convalescent, the Shatthen endeavours to soften the heart of the father towards his son, but at every point is met by obstinate refusal. Accidentally Edith's baby is brought into MINER'S BOWERY THEATRE.—Austin's Australians opened the week of April 28, to large attendance Monday night. The company is made up as follows: Almee and Rose Austin, the Brothers Stefano, Tatali, Ramza and Arno, Hines and Remington, Davenport Bros., Washburn Sisters, Dick Moroso, Geyer and Lord, and A. J. Martine. For the week of May 5 the announcements are as follow: The Young, Eddie, John, Le Chanteur, Charles Diamond, Kane and Lorena, Ed and Lou Lorette, Mintie Lee, Picket and Mayon, Hogan and Howard, Elmer Ransom, Ella Fay, Harry Pike and Ed. Barnell.

HARRY KENNEDY'S THEATRE.—The second week of this house under its new name opened April 28, with a good sized audience. Mr. Kennedy is pleased with the business of last week, and feels confident of making the venture a success. He is engaging only good people, and his friends are staying by him in the fight. The week's bill includes: Bouch and Castleton, John L. Manning, Baggsen, Ella Wessner, Harry Kennedy, Twin Bros., Wems and Sisters, Coyne, Chas. McDonald, Prof. Harry Parker's Dog Circus, Nibble and Nibble (formerly Campbell and Nibble), Ida Heath, John Le Fayre and the Brahmans.

GAETY MUSEUM.—This week's bill: Curie hall-Six female barbers, Zula Zingara (Circassian sword swallower), Joseph Augustus, Lillian Goodman, Lillian Tobin, Mysterious Cabinet, Prof. Early, Minnie Martin, and Uncle's Cabinet. The week ends June 1. Stage-De Forest and Butler, Little Lizzie Somers, Edwin Stephen, Mattie Collins, Wm. Stephens, Wm. Keating, John Sommers, Mike McGee, Mrs. De Forest, Miss Butler and Miss Puss.

MINER'S EIGHTH AVENUE THEATRE.—A house company, made up of popular and talented favorites of the vaudeville, are the entertainers here this week. Monday night's audience was a crusher, and a large week's business is assured. Following is the list of performers: Cain and Lorenzo, Fannie Bessie Gladys, Roger and Belle Dolan, the Vitoos, the Davies, John and Nellie Healy, Jessie Jenkins, Eddie and Eddie, Sam the Tailor, Eddie and Frank White, who will meet all comers for the week in a sparring contest. Next week, another house company. The manager of this house, Louis Robie, on April 28 assumed the management of Mr. Miner's entire vaudeville enterprises.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—A hearty welcome was accorded to James A. Herne and his talented wife, Katherine Corcoran, at this house on Monday night, April 28. The occasion was noteworthy in that it was the first production in about seven years of the old "Windsor." Herne and his wife, and the baby, Mr. Herne sustain the principal characters. The part of Terry Dennis is well suited to Mr. Herne's vigorous and manly earnestness, while the gentle and tender Chrystal of Mrs. Herne was a delightful portrayal of true womanly devotion. A bright baby and the winsome little Mabel Earle were easily the best of the remaining characters. The house was large and extremely cordial. Following is the full cast: Terry Dennis, Jas. A. Herne; Uncle Davy, Jno. F. Duncan; Owen Garroway, Frederick Chippen, Ned Fairweather, Geo. B. Bates; the Baby, by Herne; Chrys. Corcoran; Herne; Tawdry, Agnes Hampton; Ann Betsy, Herne Gould; Little Chrystal; Little Mabel Earle. Next week, "Lost in New York," May 12, Alexander Salvini.

LONDON THEATRE.—Lester & Williams' London Novelty and Gaely Co. opened the week of April 28 to fine business. Monday afternoon. The make up of this show is as follows: Pearl and Nellie Inman, Lester and Williams, Harrigan, Gallagher and West, Polly McDonald, Gus Bruno, Felix and Clayton, Juanita and Geo. W. Brown, and Weber and Fields. "Me and Jack, or Ye Lady Fayre with Ye Many Lovers," is the new show which has been seen in this city for the first time Monday afternoon. The cast: Sir Ricketty Hack, George Felix, Yorick, Gus Bruno; Snipper, John West; Snapper, Mat Gallagher; Boniface, Jas. Harrigan; Joe, Beekle Wilcox; Prince Dandylion, Little Forbes; Wildrose, Polly McDonald. The burlesque abounds in tuneful melodies by Mr. West, and the lyrics are not at all bad. When it gets into smoother shape it will be seen and heard to much better advantage. Lester & Allen's Co. are underlined for May 5 and week. Edwin Alton's annual benefit will take place afternoon and evening of 22. His list of volunteers is already significant.

ROBERT A. DUNCAN.—The highly popular advertising agent of the Union Square and Standard Theatres will benefit at the Union Square, Sunday evening, May 25. Mr. Duncan also looks after the main entrance of the Union Square, and his treatment of all patrons of that theatre is such as to make him highly esteemed. He has scores of friends everywhere, those knowing him the best appreciating his honest worth to its fullest extent. Mr. D. will have a benefit worthy of himself and many of his friends the theatre will be small to accommodate the crowd of friends and admirers who are sure to be there. His most intimate friends have taken hold of the affair in great shape. Manager J. M. Hill with his customary liberality, denotes the use of his elegant playhouse.

JACOB'S THIRD AVENUE THEATRE.—"The Two Johns" retains its amusing powers, and its popularity was shown by the two large audiences of Monday, April 28, at which time it commenced a week's stay. The following clever people are in the cast: John Hart, E. H. Fliz, George Barton, Dave Foy, Eddie H. Fliz, George Mayo, Kathryn Webster, Agnes Earle, Jenny Barton, and Eddie Rogers. The executive staff is as follows: J. C. Stewart, proprietor; A. Q. Scammon, manager; Frank C. Stewart, associate manager; James C. Kenny, musical director, and Geo. Barton, stage manager. Dowling and Hasson come May 5.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—The Rentz-Santley Co. commenced a week's stay here Monday evening, April 28, the house being well filled. The make up of the company is the same as that of last week, when they appeared at the London. For the week of May 5, the company will hold forth, the following being the announcements: Mrs. Birch, Mrs. Sivain, Leon, Frank Moran, Frank Cushman, A. C. Moreland, Murphy and Turner, Frank Dumont, the Metropolitan Quartet, Charles C. Haddock, Arthur Cook, T. W. Raymond and John W. Clark.

DALY'S THEATRE.—Rosina Vokes, on April 28, before a good sized house, changed her bill, presenting "Awakening," "The Circus Rider" and "My Lord in Liverey," a very enjoyable trip e programme, in which Miss Vokes was ably assisted by Chas. J. Bell, Emily Bancker, Gracie Sherwood, Eleanor Lane, Felix Morris, Ferd, Gottschalk, Grant Stewart and others. The show was a success, and the audience "Years, Idle Tears" in a new form and title, and was here acted by Miss Vokes' company for the first time in New York. It was cast with Courtney Thorpe in the principal role, and was well played throughout. Miss Vokes' engagement extends to May 17.

JIM THE PENMAN.—By a special company, appeared at Niblo's April 28, for a week's stay. The cast included: J. E. Whiting, John Flood, Frank Rinaldo, Edwin Travers, Harry Vernon, W. H. Pope, Eddie Wilson, Eddie Murphy, Mrs. A. C. Cazier, Evelyn Hardy, Lydia Thompson, Mrs. A. C. Thompson, and Linskyhurst. The house was very small, A. M. Palmer and Le Grand White are back of the venture. The Kirlafys' "Around the World" Co. come May 5, for a run. Ulli Akerstrom has canceled her engagement, owing to her recent illness.

THE WONDERFUL EDISON EXHIBIT.—At the Lenox Lyceum, a lease of life of only three weeks longer, and Managing Director A. B. De Freece is doubling his energies for the constant presentation of something new and interesting. The scenes and their deviations, the plants, pains and terrors have been rearranged with pleasing effect. The toy violinist, Charlie, eight years old, has created a sensation, and has been engaged to appear at every performance, as has Dr. Leo Sommer's Royal Hungarian Orchestra. At Wednesday's matinee, April 30, Flossie Ethyl and George Cooper, the Little Lords in Manager T. H. French's "Little Lord Fauntleroy" Co., will give some recitations. For the week of May 5, Bessie H. Meechier, saxophone soloist, has been engaged. The Lenox Lyceum has become quite a fashionable place.

THE PERFORMANCE OF "The Stepping Stone."—Was given at Palmer's Monday night, April 28. It was announced from the stage that John A. Lane, of the cast, had been taken suddenly ill. The house was dismissed. Mr. Lane was found later at the Five & a's playing cribbage. He said that there had been a misundertstanding between Sydney Rosenthal and himself, but would be ready to appear 29. The reason that salary played an important part in the affair.

A BIG BENEFIT is being arranged for the afternoon of April 22. The bill of credit for the benefit will be performances in aid of a fund to establish a permanent three free beds in the babies' ward of the New York Post Graduate Medical College and Hospital. These beds are to be forever at the disposal of the Actors' Fund. A. B. De Freece, who originated the praiseworthy scheme, is to co-operate with A. M. Palmer, the Fund's president. All the arrangements are in capable hands, and a notable benefit will undoubtedly be the result. All professionals desirous of volunteering are requested to notify A. B. De Freece at the Lenox Lyceum.

MANAGER GEORGE W. RIFE.—The Clipper, earlier April 28, Mr. Rife's plans as to the direction and policy of the Holliday under its new managers are fully outlined in our letter from that city. The house, he assures us, will be conducted on first class principles, and it is not at all likely that the result will be otherwise than agreeable. During the summer the theatre will be thoroughly renovated and extensively improved. Mr. Rife has acquired a very large circle of professional friends during his long theatrical experience.

PROFESSOR RILEY.—"The Little Lord Fauntleroy," is engaged in assisting A. B. De Freece to boom the Edison Exhibit at the Lenox Lyceum and the coming big benefit for the perpetuation of three free beds for the Actors' Fund at the New York Post Graduate Medical College and Hospital. Mr. Morris is a diligent and discreet worker.

THE ADVERTISING AGENTS' SOCIETY'S third meeting was held at the Bijou Opera House April 27. The usual business was transacted, and several new members were admitted. Prof. Eddie and his troupe, Dave Lowinsky, The next regular meeting will be held at his place on 3rd Avenue, near Twenty-fourth Street, May 4, when the financial condition of the organization will be discussed.

HARLEM.—At Hammerstein's Opera House, Rose Coughlin played to good houses all last week, proving one of the best attractions seen here in some time. "Hold by the Enemy" opened to a fair house April 26. This company closes the first regular season of this house, The Concord Opera Co. will open the Summer season May 5 in "The King's Foot."

OLYMPIC.—Business is beginning to pick up again, with every prospect of increasing. The week's bill includes: Bouch and Castleton, John L. Manning, Baggsen, Ella Wessner, Harry Kennedy, Twin Bros., Wems and Sisters, Coyne, Chas. McDonald, Prof. Harry Parker's Dog Circus, Nibble and Nibble (formerly Campbell and Nibble), Ida Heath, John Le Fayre and the Brahmans.

LYCEUM.—This week, Sol Smith Russell in "A Poor Relation" the first three nights, and Eddie Russell, the last two, in "The Seven Ages" 12.

NATIONAL THEATRE.—"The Seven Ages" 12, April 26, David Belasco's "The Baroness" 12, April 27, Harry Kelly's theatre, "Shadows of a Great City" played to excellent business last week, May 5, "The Knights of Tyburn."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

THEATRE.—"The Seven Ages" 12, April 26, David Belasco's "The Baroness" 12, April 27, Harry Kelly's theatre, "Shadows of a Great City" played to excellent business last week, May 5, "The Knights of Tyburn."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by "My Jack."

PAK THEATRE.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" with Tommy Russell and Gertrude Hoffman alternating in the title role, Harry and Clara Morris attracted large audiences last week. "The Seven Ages" 12.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Under the personal supervision of Harry Kelly and his able assistant, E. Colombe Jones, the work of getting the new Grand in readiness for the reopening is being rapidly pushed, everything in place, and the house is in a state of despatch, at least as far as the building itself is concerned. Harry Kelly's good May 5, Kate Castleton returns followed by

RATES:
FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

Twenty cents per line agate type measure; space of one inch, $2.50 each insertion. A deduction of 20 per cent on advertisements when paid for three months in advance.

SUBSCRIPTION.

One year in advance, $4; six months, $2; three months, $1. Foreign postage extra. Single copies, 10 cents each.

Our Terms Are Cash.

THE CLIPPER is issued every Wednesday morning. The 1st, 4th, 7th, 10th, 12th, 13th and 16th pages GO TO PRESS ON MONDAY and the other pages on TUESDAY EVENING.

Please remit in money order, check, P. O. order or registered letter.

Address all Communications:

THE FRANK QUEEN PUBLISHING CO., (LIMITED).

P. O. Box 3, 758, or CLIPPER BUILDING, 85 and 90 Centre Street, New York.

THE CLIPPER may be obtained, whole or part, at the following American news agents: Newcastle Street, Strand, London, W. C., England.

THE CLIPPER is on sale at Brentano's news depot, 430 Strand, London, England, and 17 Avenue de l'Opera, Paris, France.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE FRANK QUEEN PUBLISHING CO. (LIMITED), PUBLISHERS.

GEO. W. KEIL, MANAGER.

SATURDAY, MAY 3, 1890.

QUERIES ANSWERED.

No Replies by Mail or Telegraph.

Addresses or whereabouts not given, all in quest of such should write to those whom they seek in care of THE CLIPPER. Open all letters will be forwarded to week, gratis. If the route of any theatrical company is rough, refer to our list or routes on another page. We cannot send routes by mail or telegraph.

THEATRICAL.

S. G. E., Greensburg.—Yes, it is 'Keen.' M. H. B., Texarkana.—See the notice at the head of this column.

H. G. B., Philadelphia.—You can only be patient and persistent. Make repeated application to town managers as you deem likely to require talent such as yours. Permanent engagements are not to be had, but they are more desirable. It seems to us that with your experience you should not have great difficulty in getting employment. The agency to which you refer probably took a for a variety performer; hence its request for a description of you.

R. L. D., Des Moines.—See the notice at the head of this column.

M. C. D., Murfreesboro.—The Booth Barrett Co. of New York, on April 29, 1889, printed the date of Mr. Booth's joining Modjeska. 2. You did.

J. G. K., Anderson.—Jan. 25, 1886, at San Antonio, Tex. 2 and 3. We will not answer questions as to the private affairs of professionals. Write to the papers on your own account.

W. H. W., New York.—See the notice at the head of this column.

CONSTANT READER, Newark.—You had better write to our local house correspondent in that city, Arthur F. Carmody, 1,606 Washington Street.

W. J. R., Oswego.—We cannot say. It is none of our business.

R. L. D.—I. Sid C. France did play "Marked for Life" at the theatre several years ago. 2. Yes, variety and drama were played there, as stated.

S. J.—See the notice at the head of this column. If you fail to get in communication with them as there indicated, the place is likely to be empty. You may insert a small card asking for information as to their whereabouts. Undoubtedly some CLIPPER reader will be able to enlighten you.

F. A. T., John Brougham died June 7, 1880. 2. Tim Hayes, the clog dancer, died May 12, 1877.

C. J. B., Livermore.—We have no record of such jumps, and we doubt if any other paper or person has kept such records. You will, however, consult some well posted drama manager, like Mr. C. C. Collier, for instance.

W. A. C., Plainfield.—You can address her as per the notice at the head of this column.

H. F. R., Delavan.—See the notice at the head of this column.

W. H. S., Jersey City.—Neither house there, to our knowledge.

Cot. F. J., Washington.—Mrs. Vernon, formerly of Wallingford, died in this city June 4, 1889.

Mrs. T. S., New Orleans.—It is likely that there is, or has been, such a personage. His name does not now occur to us as that of a theatrical man, of prominence; but, though we have had to keep a record of 1000 persons, it is possible that you are referring to some one. 2. No.

MAUD N., Troy.—We prefer to retain letters. They may be sent for months after their delivery here.

A. M., Lowell.—A and B shoot off for first and second prizes. C and D for third and fourth. 2. He.

W. E. C., Philadelphia.—You will have to pay for the services of a lawyer, if you made a hit you might command from $30 a week upward; and you might often get less.

C. A. D., South Easton.—All three are dead. Amelia Wells died in this city May 14, 1886. Louisa (Mrs. L. Wells) Sept. 5, 1872. Mary (Mrs. Mary Ann F. J. Howe), April 10, 1874, at Dover, N. H.

H. M. R., Taunton.—See "R. O. Quebec."

READER, St. Louis.—That book is not out yet.

A. L. FAIRCHILD.—Yours received, and an answer sent.

C. E. COCHRANE.—Position received with thanks.

MAG. NEWARK.—You win, according to your statement, No. 2 had no claim on the pot whatever.

RING.

W. A. F., Virginia City.—1. The international prize fight between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers was for the championship of England and $1,000 a side, and took place at Farnborough, in Kent, April 17, 1880. The referee left the ring side before the combat, and took with him his seconds, leaving the ring after the forty-second round, leaning on the shoulders of his seconds, refusing to return at the call of Heenan. Several meetings at the "Box's L. P. office, London, it was decided that the referee should be present, and he did, and the publically presented with a fine statue of the championship belt fought for, Sayers retiring from the ring, and it being agreed that if Heenan successfully defended the belt, the period of three years should be added to his personal property. 2. Heenan never actually won a battle in the prize ring, although he was the virtual winner of his fights with Sayers and Tom King, being unfairly dealt with on both sides.

S. A. W., Peabody.—1. John C. Heenan was not blind when he left the ring in which him and Tom Sayers fought in England. He jumped over the ropes, and ran across the ring, and the referee, who had been blindfolded, was on the fence on the way. He became blind soon afterward, however. 2. They fought thirty-seven rounds with a referee, and five more after official quit the ring, making a total number actually fought being therefore, forty-two.

J. P., Montreal.—In the first glove contest between John L. Sullivan and Alf. Greenfield, which took place at Madison Square Garden, this city in 1884, the bout was fought in a room, and the second in a hall. The second bout took place at the new England Institute Building, Boston, Mass., the following January. Greenfield was not knocked out of time, although he was forced twice, and the last blow was given with a 56 round shot.

Mrs. SHAW.—To make amends for the delay, we now give a comparatively full solution.

SOMEONE OUT.—Our thanks for a recent problem from The Illustrated Zeitung.

BRIEFLETS.

W. A. F., Virginia City.—1. The international prize fight between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers was for the championship of England and $1,000 a side, and took place at Farnborough, in Kent, April 17, 1880. The referee left the ring side before the combat, and took with him his seconds, leaving the ring after the forty-second round, leaning on the shoulders of his seconds, refusing to return at the call of Heenan. Several meetings at the "Box's L. P. office, London, it was decided that the referee should be present, and he did, and the publically presented with a fine statue of the championship belt fought for, Sayers retiring from the ring, and it being agreed that if Heenan successfully defended the belt, the period of three years should be added to his personal property. 2. Heenan never actually won a battle in the prize ring, although he was the virtual winner of his fights with Sayers and Tom King, being unfairly dealt with on both sides.

S. A. W., Peabody.—1. John C. Heenan was not blind when he left the ring in which him and Tom Sayers fought in England. He jumped over the ropes, and ran across the ring, and the referee, who had been blindfolded, was on the fence on the way. He became blind soon afterward, however. 2. They fought thirty-seven rounds with a referee, and five more after official quit the ring, making a total number actually fought being therefore, forty-two.

J. P., Montreal.—In the first glove contest between John L. Sullivan and Alf. Greenfield, which took place at Madison Square Garden, this city in 1884, the bout was fought in a room, and the second in a hall. The second bout took place at the new England Institute Building, Boston, Mass., the following January. Greenfield was not knocked out of time, although he was forced twice, and the last blow was given with a 56 round shot.

Mrs. SHAW.—To make amends for the delay, we now give a comparatively full solution.

SOMEONE OUT.—Our thanks for a recent problem from The Illustrated Zeitung.

BRIEFLETS.

W. A. F., Virginia City.—1. The international prize fight between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers was for the championship of England and $1,000 a side, and took place at Farnborough, in Kent, April 17, 1880. The referee left the ring side before the combat, and took with him his seconds, leaving the ring after the forty-second round, leaning on the shoulders of his seconds, refusing to return at the call of Heenan. Several meetings at the "Box's L. P. office, London, it was decided that the referee should be present, and he did, and the publically presented with a fine statue of the championship belt fought for, Sayers retiring from the ring, and it being agreed that if Heenan successfully defended the belt, the period of three years should be added to his personal property. 2. Heenan never actually won a battle in the prize ring, although he was the virtual winner of his fights with Sayers and Tom King, being unfairly dealt with on both sides.

S. A. W., Peabody.—1. John C. Heenan was not blind when he left the ring in which him and Tom Sayers fought in England. He jumped over the ropes, and ran across the ring, and the referee, who had been blindfolded, was on the fence on the way. He became blind soon afterward, however. 2. They fought thirty-seven rounds with a referee, and five more after official quit the ring, making a total number actually fought being therefore, forty-two.

J. P., Montreal.—In the first glove contest between John L. Sullivan and Alf. Greenfield, which took place at Madison Square Garden, this city in 1884, the bout was fought in a room, and the second in a hall. The second bout took place at the new England Institute Building, Boston, Mass., the following January. Greenfield was not knocked out of time, although he was forced twice, and the last blow was given with a 56 round shot.

Mrs. SHAW.—To make amends for the delay, we now give a comparatively full solution.

SOMEONE OUT.—Our thanks for a recent problem from The Illustrated Zeitung.

BRIEFLETS.

W. A. F., Virginia City.—1. The international prize fight between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers was for the championship of England and $1,000 a side, and took place at Farnborough, in Kent, April 17, 1880. The referee left the ring side before the combat, and took with him his seconds, leaving the ring after the forty-second round, leaning on the shoulders of his seconds, refusing to return at the call of Heenan. Several meetings at the "Box's L. P. office, London, it was decided that the referee should be present, and he did, and the publically presented with a fine statue of the championship belt fought for, Sayers retiring from the ring, and it being agreed that if Heenan successfully defended the belt, the period of three years should be added to his personal property. 2. Heenan never actually won a battle in the prize ring, although he was the virtual winner of his fights with Sayers and Tom King, being unfairly dealt with on both sides.

S. A. W., Peabody.—1. John C. Heenan was not blind when he left the ring in which him and Tom Sayers fought in England. He jumped over the ropes, and ran across the ring, and the referee, who had been blindfolded, was on the fence on the way. He became blind soon afterward, however. 2. They fought thirty-seven rounds with a referee, and five more after official quit the ring, making a total number actually fought being therefore, forty-two.

J. P., Montreal.—In the first glove contest between John L. Sullivan and Alf. Greenfield, which took place at Madison Square Garden, this city in 1884, the bout was fought in a room, and the second in a hall. The second bout took place at the new England Institute Building, Boston, Mass., the following January. Greenfield was not knocked out of time, although he was forced twice, and the last blow was given with a 56 round shot.

Mrs. SHAW.—To make amends for the delay, we now give a comparatively full solution.

SOMEONE OUT.—Our thanks for a recent problem from The Illustrated Zeitung.

BRIEFLETS.

W. A. F., Virginia City.—1. The international prize fight between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers was for the championship of England and $1,000 a side, and took place at Farnborough, in Kent, April 17, 1880. The referee left the ring side before the combat, and took with him his seconds, leaving the ring after the forty-second round, leaning on the shoulders of his seconds, refusing to return at the call of Heenan. Several meetings at the "Box's L. P. office, London, it was decided that the referee should be present, and he did, and the publically presented with a fine statue of the championship belt fought for, Sayers retiring from the ring, and it being agreed that if Heenan successfully defended the belt, the period of three years should be added to his personal property. 2. Heenan never actually won a battle in the prize ring, although he was the virtual winner of his fights with Sayers and Tom King, being unfairly dealt with on both sides.

S. A. W., Peabody.—1. John C. Heenan was not blind when he left the ring in which him and Tom Sayers fought in England. He jumped over the ropes, and ran across the ring, and the referee, who had been blindfolded, was on the fence on the way. He became blind soon afterward, however. 2. They fought thirty-seven rounds with a referee, and five more after official quit the ring, making a total number actually fought being therefore, forty-two.

J. P., Montreal.—In the first glove contest between John L. Sullivan and Alf. Greenfield, which took place at Madison Square Garden, this city in 1884, the bout was fought in a room, and the second in a hall. The second bout took place at the new England Institute Building, Boston, Mass., the following January. Greenfield was not knocked out of time, although he was forced twice, and the last blow was given with a 56 round shot.

Mrs. SHAW.—To make amends for the delay, we now give a comparatively full solution.

SOMEONE OUT.—Our thanks for a recent problem from The Illustrated Zeitung.

BRIEFLETS.

W. A. F., Virginia City.—1. The international prize fight between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers was for the championship of England and $1,000 a side, and took place at Farnborough, in Kent, April 17, 1880. The referee left the ring side before the combat, and took with him his seconds, leaving the ring after the forty-second round, leaning on the shoulders of his seconds, refusing to return at the call of Heenan. Several meetings at the "Box's L. P. office, London, it was decided that the referee should be present, and he did, and the publically presented with a fine statue of the championship belt fought for, Sayers retiring from the ring, and it being agreed that if Heenan successfully defended the belt, the period of three years should be added to his personal property. 2. Heenan never actually won a battle in the prize ring, although he was the virtual winner of his fights with Sayers and Tom King, being unfairly dealt with on both sides.

S. A. W., Peabody.—1. John C. Heenan was not blind when he left the ring in which him and Tom Sayers fought in England. He jumped over the ropes, and ran across the ring, and the referee, who had been blindfolded, was on the fence on the way. He became blind soon afterward, however. 2. They fought thirty-seven rounds with a referee, and five more after official quit the ring, making a total number actually fought being therefore, forty-two.

J. P., Montreal.—In the first glove contest between John L. Sullivan and Alf. Greenfield, which took place at Madison Square Garden, this city in 1884, the bout was fought in a room, and the second in a hall. The second bout took place at the new England Institute Building, Boston, Mass., the following January. Greenfield was not knocked out of time, although he was forced twice, and the last blow was given with a 56 round shot.

Mrs. SHAW.—To make amends for the delay, we now give a comparatively full solution.

SOMEONE OUT.—Our thanks for a recent problem from The Illustrated Zeitung.

BRIEFLETS.

W. A. F., Virginia City.—1. The international prize fight between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers was for the championship of England and $1,000 a side, and took place at Farnborough, in Kent, April 17, 1880. The referee left the ring side before the combat, and took with him his seconds, leaving the ring after the forty-second round, leaning on the shoulders of his seconds, refusing to return at the call of Heenan. Several meetings at the "Box's L. P. office, London, it was decided that the referee should be present, and he did, and the publically presented with a fine statue of the championship belt fought for, Sayers retiring from the ring, and it being agreed that if Heenan successfully defended the belt, the period of three years should be added to his personal property. 2. Heenan never actually won a battle in the prize ring, although he was the virtual winner of his fights with Sayers and Tom King, being unfairly dealt with on both sides.

S. A. W., Peabody.—1. John C. Heenan was not blind when he left the ring in which him and Tom Sayers fought in England. He jumped over the ropes, and ran across the ring, and the referee, who had been blindfolded, was on the fence on the way. He became blind soon afterward, however. 2. They fought thirty-seven rounds with a referee, and five more after official quit the ring, making a total number actually fought being therefore, forty-two.

J. P., Montreal.—In the first glove contest between John L. Sullivan and Alf. Greenfield, which took place at Madison Square Garden, this city in 1884, the bout was fought in a room, and the second in a hall. The second bout took place at the new England Institute Building, Boston, Mass., the following January. Greenfield was not knocked out of time, although he was forced twice, and the last blow was given with a 56 round shot.

Mrs. SHAW.—To make amends for the delay, we now give a comparatively full solution.

SOMEONE OUT.—Our thanks for a recent problem from The Illustrated Zeitung.

BRIEFLETS.

W. A. F., Virginia City.—1. The international prize fight between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers was for the championship of England and $1,000 a side, and took place at Farnborough, in Kent, April 17, 1880. The referee left the ring side before the combat, and took with him his seconds, leaving the ring after the forty-second round, leaning on the shoulders of his seconds, refusing to return at the call of Heenan. Several meetings at the "Box's L

Umpire McDermott gives his version of the trouble at the Boston-New York game, of April 24, in Boston, as follows: "Nobody regrets the outcome of that dispute more than I do. I do not claim to be infallible, and realize that I am liable to errors in judgment, but I always umpire a game and decide each point in accordance with my best judgment. It has been charged that I favored the Boston right along previous to the trouble with Welch and Glasscock, but if any one will take that trouble to review the papers they will see that it was not so. Tucker's hit over the right field fence I called a foul, thus preventing a home run for Boston, yet it was a very close decision, and if anybody was favored it was the New York Club. Again, when Hornung attempted to steal second I decided in his favor. But it was a very close decision, and if I had been so sanguine of favoring Boston, I could have given that decision without being accused of unfairness. But, as it was a close call, I gave the base runner the benefit of the doubt. In the seventh inning, when that trouble arose, the point at issue was misinterpreted by the spectators. The kick was not over the decision at the plate, as some of the papers have declared. Long was undoubtedly safe. Neither Glasscock nor Welch dispute that fact. After play had been resumed Welch asked me what the last ball was. I replied: 'I called a ball.' Then he kicked, and I ordered him to pitch the ball. He refused to do so; then Glasscock started in, and I fined him both and called $10 each. Welch again refused to pitch the ball, and I told him he must either play ball or get out of the game. I did not order him out of the game. Welch made no answer, but threw the ball on the ground and started off. Then I took out my watch and told them I would give them one minute to get to their places, or I should declare the game forfeited to Boston, under the rules. As they still hesitated, I warned them, saying: 'Gentlemen, this minute is going very fast.' Then Glasscock called for Sharrott, but the latter had not reached the box when the minute had expired, and so I called the game."

"Attendance at the National and Players' League games since the season began," said N. E. Young of the National League, "has been dwindling perceptibly, and there is clearly no demonstration of the impossibility of two big baseball associations making money. Divided attendance means diminished gate receipts, and somebody must go to the wall. In my opinion the National League is better fitted financially to stand the strain, and most undoubtedly it will play all the games scheduled for this season. Baseball patrons will go where the best game is being put up, as has been shown at Boston recently. Crowds flocked to the Brotherhood Park for a day or so, regardless of the League team on the other grounds, but now a reaction has set in, and simply because the Leaguers are playing better ball than their rivals. The increased attendance is not a guarantee that the people are pleased. There is not the greatest enthusiasm among the part of the backers of the National League to let down in their efforts to keep the game up at the proper pitch, and money will not be spared by which to further such a result and improve the national pastime as it should be. That brings me to a point in which I think the game can be improved, and that is the double umpire system. Undoubtedly the National League will have to take it up, and the only reason that it has not been done thus far this season has been the question of expense involved. It has been proposed to have a local substitute umpire in each National League city to help out the regular umpire, which a plan which would be acceptable. People demand that the umpires, who are sole judges of the game, shall be disinterested people as much as possible and entirely remove from any suspicion of bias or local prejudice."

President A. L. Johnson, of the Cleveland Club, of the Players' League, said: "I consider it an indication of a clear breakdown which the National League is preparing to make. As everybody knows, at the last meeting of the Players' League I was in favor of changing our schedule to prevent conflicting dates as much as possible. My associates disagreed with me, and we did not change our schedule. When that step was taken I was satisfied and would have lost every cent I possess rather than back down. The National League people forced the fight, and now, the National League is in a position to shut off their medicine like men. I think that within the next few days an effort will be made to generally change the National League schedule. For a time this will save the National League, but finally people will not care to see its games at all, and the Players' League will have the field to itself. It is the most sensible thing that the National League people can do, however, but I don't know but that I would rather see the fight."

An account of the continued rain Manager Ward, of the Brooklyn Club, of the Players' League, decided to have the formal opening day, at Eastern Park, Brooklyn, on Wednesday, April 30, when the Brooklyns will have Capt. Ewing's New York Giants as opponents. Mayor Chapin has promised to be on hand to make the dedicatory address, and the occasion will be made a gala day. The stands will be decorated with flags and bunting, and the Twenty-third Regiment Band will give a concert before and after the game. The King County Elevated Railroad Company will run express trains direct to the grounds from the Brooklyn entrance of the East River Bridge.

The injury sustained by Second Baseman Fitzgerald, of the Athletic Club, of the American Association, on April 18, in Philadelphia, is much more serious than was expected. Fitzgerald was hurt sliding in at the home plate, his left foot turning under him. The bones of his left leg, near the ankle, have been found to be badly fractured, and his limb had to be cast in plaster and boxed up. He will not be able to play for at least three months. George Shafer's injury, received in the same game, is sliding into third, is healing, and he will soon be able to play.

The Arctic Association championship games, played April 22, were as follows: At Washington, the Hartfords, with Fagan in the box, defeated the home team by a score of 12 to 1. Mr. McPhee did the pitching for the Washingtons. At Bainbridge, the home team defeated the New Havens by a score of 5 to 3. Baker pitched for the Baltimore, and Horner for the visitors. At Wilmington, the Worcester easily vanquished the home team by a score of 9 to 1. Stafford pitched for the former and Smith for the latter.

Peter Daly, who was for a number of years ground keeper at the Polo Grounds, died, April 20, at his home in this city. Daly had charge of the Polo Grounds when the Manhattan Polo Association played there, and when the old Metropolitan Club leased the property, Daly was retained by President Day, and he remained in his employ up to the time of his death.

In the fourth inning of the Rochester-Brooklyn game, played April 23, at Ridgewood Park, Simon, of the home team, tried to bunt the ball, and after several attempts succeeded in tapping one, but it was up, and striking his nose, broke it. He was taken in a carriage to a doctor, who repaired it.

The New York Club, of the National League, has signed Tommie Esterbrook, the well known player, who will be tried at first base. Few men know Esterbrook better than Manager Mutrie does, and he knows just how to handle him, and should get good work out of him if anyone can.

The Jersey Citys of the Atlantic Association, had the Columbia College boys as opponents in a game played April 22, at Jersey City, and the latter were beaten by a score of 6 to 0. The collegians only made one safe hit off Pitcher Wheeler, of the Jersey Citys.

In the game between the Renovos and Lancasters, played April 26, at Renovo, Pa., Lynch, of the home team, retired the Lancasters in the seventh inning on three pitched balls. The Renovos won by a score of 11 to 8.

H. W. Tew, President of the New York and Pennsylvania League, resigned, and James A. Lindsey, of Bradford, Pa., was elected to fill the vacancy, with headquarters at Bradford. The league's champion ship season begins May 10.

The Evansville Club has released Catcher George McVey and Short Stop Harry Fuller and signed Pitcher Dave Sowers and Third Baseman John J. Kerby.

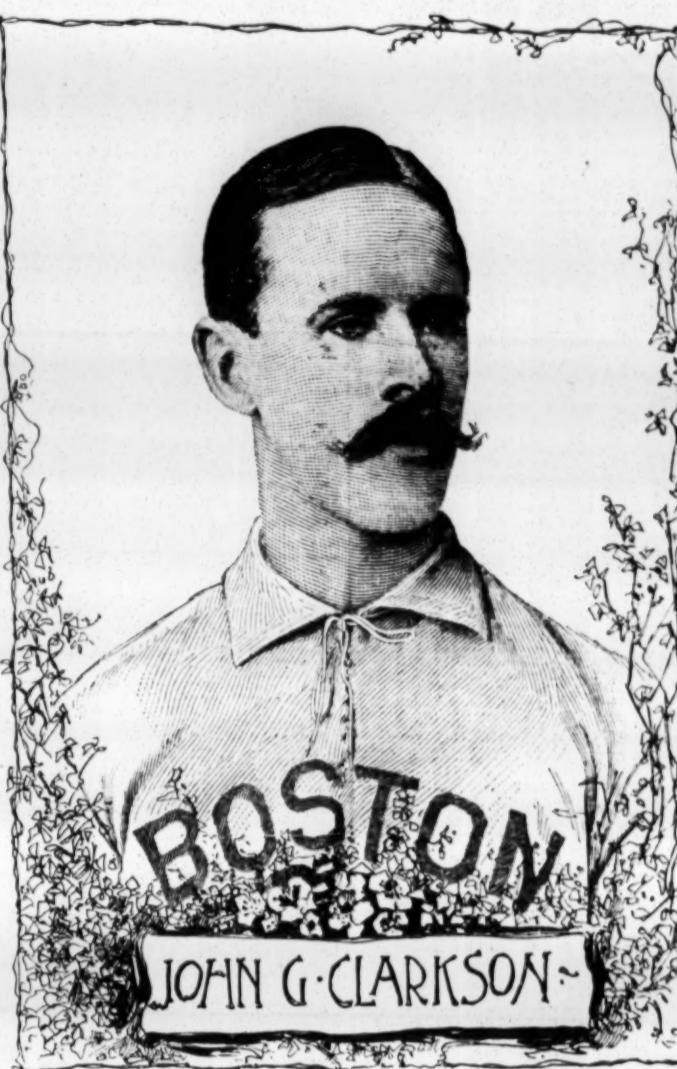

The Drummers of Erie have fine ground in prime order. Always good business for good visiting clubs having open dates. Communications should be addressed to P. E. McCullum, manager.

In the game between the Cincinnati and Chicago, played April 24, at Cincinnati, McPhee made a safe hit each of the four times he was at bat, including a single, two doubles and a triple.

In the Boston-New York game, played April 24, in Boston, Clarkson, in sliding to the home plate in the seventh inning, wrenched his ankle, and had to be carried off the field.

Manager John M. Ward called at this office on April 26. He is the picture of health, and says his team is in good trim and will make an excellent showing this year.

W. H. Golby, formerly of the Baltimore Club, of the American Association, has signed with the Terre Hautes.

This week we present a portrait of John G. Clarkson. Probably no man has gained a greater reputation, in the few years of his professional career, than has the well known pitcher of the Boston Club, of the National League. Clarkson was born July 1, 1861, at Cambridge, Mass. Always fond of athletic sports, he naturally took to the national game, and learned to play ball while attending school. He was the catcher for the Webster School nine ten years ago, and from the inception it was seen that he was the making of a first class player. It was not long, however, until he conceived the idea that he might become a pitcher, and was therefore instructed in the arts of that profession by the famous George Wright of Boston. It was in 1882, while pitching for the Beacon team, of Boston, that Clarkson attracted the attention of the management of the Worcester Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or lasting one. He was bothered with bad shoulder, and, after six weeks, was laid off for the remainder of the season. In 1883 Clarkson was engaged for the Saginaw Club, of the National League, and he was at once engaged as an infelder and change pitcher. That was his first professional engagement, but unfortunately for him, it did not prove a brilliant or

WANTED, PEOPLE
FOR HIPPODROME
RACES,
WHO DO TURN IN BIG SHOW OR CONCERT.

Address KING & FRANKLIN,
 Muncie, Ind.

JUST READ!
NOW READY.
 Orchestra parts for the beautiful song,
"When Twilight Shadows
'Round Thee Fall."

Sent free to professionals sending programme. T. B. KELLEY,
 24 Lincoln Street, Jersey City, N. J.

Cronheim's Theatre,
 HOBOKEN, N. J.

SIEGFRIED CRONHEIM..... Proprietor and Manager
 H. J. HAMMOND..... Business Manager
 May 1. Grand Opening of Monster Summer Garden and Exhibition Building. Entirely refitted and enlarged for season. Paul Boynton, Wallace Ross, Ed. Hanlan, Woodward and seals, the large and famous "Giant" and "Goliath," the curiosities of every show, society fair, curies, swimmers, horse tamers, skaters, wrestlers, boxers' tournaments, fencers, sharpshooters, military prize drill, fire exhibitions, elephant seal, West and pro-digous enterprises, giant, giant, lion, show, cattle, sides-show privileges, games of chance, or anything there is any money in, picnic committees, etc. Apply to SIEGFRIED CRONHEIM.

CLINTON ST. THEATRE,
 TRENTON, N. J.

NOW BOOKING FOR THE SUMMER SEASON.

WANTED,
 For May 5 and 12, First Class Repertoire,
 Burlesque or Comic Opera Combination for three (3) nights or week stands. Capacity of house, 800. Prices, 15¢ and 30 cents. Share only. Wire or write immediately. ARTHUR C. KIRKHAM, Manager.

ATTRACtIONS WANTED

FOR
 Canada's Great Eastern Exhibition and Fair,
 To be held at SHERBROOKE Province of Quebec, Sept.
 2, 3 and 4, 1890. Road attractions and entertainments wanted both for buildings and tents, as well as outside Grounds. Write to J. W. MONTFORD, Toronto, Ont., giving information and particulars as to entertainments offered, price for the above dates, and also arrangements for running on percentage.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

For Fairs, Summer Resorts, etc., furnished—indoor and out—at any time, anywhere.

WANTED.
 Aeronaut with Gas Balloon, also Parachute People (hot air) for immediate and later dates. First Class Museum Attractions can always secure time. Send best terms, etc., first correspondence. H. L. MONTFORD, Toronto, Can.

H. S. TAYLOR,
 DEALER IN
 American and Foreign Plays,
 AUTHORS' AGENT, Etc.,
 1,103 Broadway, New York.
 SEND ONE CENT STAMP FOR CATALOGUE.

MUST BE SOLD.
TWO HORSES

With Eight Feet Each.
 The greatest curiosity in America. Dirt cheap. Address

HERMAN REICHE,
 95 Park Row, N. Y. City.

BOGAN'S
 BOGAN'S
 BOGAN'S

BOGAN'S

PEOPLE'S THEATRE, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

The popular playhouse of Chicago, aptly spoken of as "THE PEOPLE'S—in every sense of the word." Plays with like attractions to

MORE DOLLARS THAN ANY THEATRE IN THE CITY.

Admirably located for a city draft, because it is situated in the centre, within one block of the terminus of the Lake Elevated, directly at the corner of the three Street Railways that pass no where near any other theatre, and within easy access to three suburban Railway Stations, and all Street Railways. Splendidly located for a transient trade, because it is SITUATED ON CHICAGO'S GREATEST THOROUGHFARE, STATE STREET, within one block of the Big Auditorium Theatre and Hotel; within two blocks of the projected 14 story hotel, corner Jackson and Dearborn, the Palmer House, Grand Pacific, Leland, Clifton and numerous smaller hotels. Seated throughout with opera chairs, and perfectly equipped otherwise.

HOLDING OVER $900 AT THE STANDARD PRICES, 25c. TO $1.00 (The latter being Orchestra Chairs, not Box Seats).

Particular attention is called to the fact, that next season's engagements OPEN SUNDAY MATINEE, AND CLOSE SATURDAY NIGHT. MANAGERS OF

First Class Combinations DESIRING TIME FOR SEASONS 1890-91, 1891-2, address

JO BAYLIES, Proprietor and Sole Manager,

CHICAGO, ILL.

N. B.—Would like to hear from one or two extra strong attractions playing West during August.

READY.

HAVING ENGAGED THE

Best Sketch and Lithographic Artists
IN AMERICA,
WE INTEND SURPASSING ALL WORK
HERETOFORE EXECUTED BY OUR HOUSE.

Customers favoring us with orders may feel assured that our

SKETCHES AND LITHOGRAPHS WILL EXCEL IN DRAWING, EFFECT AND COLOR.

A New and Splendid Assortment of STOCK LITHOGRAPHS Constantly on Hand.

H. A. THOMAS & WYLIE,

136, 139, 134 West Twenty-fourth Street, New York City.

Telephone Call, 669 Twenty-first Street. FRANK G. FULLGRAFF, Representative.

The Largest and Most Complete Place of Amusement in America.

ELITCH'S ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS, DENVER, COL.

OPEN EVERY DAY FROM 7 A. M. TO 7 P. M. MATINEE IN GRAND PAVILION THEATRE, 2 P. M.

WANTED, for immediate and future dates, all specialties and novelties of all descriptions suitable for refined lady audiences.

JOHN ELITCH JR. Proprietor | CHAN. E. SCHILLING. Manager

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Population, 40,000. SELMA, ALA., Population, 15,000.

BOTH UNDER ONE MANAGEMENT.

THEATRE, Montgomery, Ala., OPERA HOUSE,
SEATS 1,100.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC, Selma, Ala.,
SEATS 1,000.

The above Theatres are thoroughly equipped for any representation in the amusement business of the present day. Parties having dates in Selma please let me know at once. For dates, terms, etc., for either city, address

G. F. McDONALD, Montgomery, Ala.

"A FENCE AROUND OHIO."

SAM YOUNG, SOLE PROPRIETOR, SOLE OWNER OF THE GREAT AND GLORIOUS STATE OF OHIO, WANTS

FOR COMING SEASON, TO SUPPORT THE POPULAR DRAMATIC ARTISTS, THE MELVILLE SISTERS,

A No. 1 Repertoire Comedian, Leading Man, Heavy Man, Character Old Man, Lady who can do Strong Characters, etc.; also want Small Novelty Orchestra, or Fine Pianist, whose Music would be feature. Management pays hotel expenses (except fires).

ALSO WANT TO BUY OR PAY ROYALTIES ON TWO OR THREE STRONG PLAYS, WITH PRINTING. Will also purchase scenery for same. For dates, terms, etc., for next season, address G. F. YOUNG, Manager, Melville Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

PACIFIC COAST SUCCESSES.
"PICTURE OF MY BABY ON THE WALL," BY THE P. G. REED.

SUNG NIGHTLY WITH GREAT SUCCESS BY HARRY J. HOWARD OF W. N. CLEVELAND'S MINSTRELS.

"SONG FOR DEAR OLD FATHER," BY C. H. REED.

Beautiful new Ballad for Piano or Guitar. "Why not sing a song for dear old Father, dear old Father?" says the chorus; and why not, indeed, pay him a tribute now and then as well as "Mother Dear." A pleasing story is told throughout the song. Price of each, to professionals, 10 cents; with orchestral parts, 25 cents.

J. P. BRODER & CO., Music Publishers, 725 Larkin Street, San Francisco, Cal.

N. B.—The above songs can be obtained at all music stores at regular professional rates.

FRED WALDMANN'S NEWARK OPERA HOUSE.

FIRST CLASS SPECIALTIES WANTED FOR WEEK OF MAY 19.

Address FRED WALDMANN, Manager, Newark, N. J.

WHO WANTS US FOR NEXT SEASON? WITH DRAMATIC, COMEDY OR SPECIALTY CO.

MR. HARRY FIELDING, DIALECT CHARACTER ACTOR, JUVENILE AND SINGING COMEDIAN, MISS MAGGIE WALKER, DIALECT CHARACTER ACTRESS, LEADS AND SINGING Soubrette.

Both Dance. Also my little child PAULINE, sings well, with fine voice and good reader. Would accept a place in good stock. Can produce Drama, Comedy, Farce or Sketch. All A. Address GLEN ROAD, DORCHESTER, MASS., or care of CLIPPER.

THE FUNNY GERMAN KNOCKABOUT COMEDIANS, VOCALISTS AND DANCERS.

Gus ROGERS BROS. Max

Have Signed with Harry Kornell's Company for Next Season.

Booking Manager for Knockabout Comedians, Max Theatre, Boston, this week. May 8-9.

For 10-11-12-13-14-15-16-17-18-19-20-21-22-23-24-25-26-27-28-29-30-31-32-33-34-35-36-37-38-39-40-41-42-43-44-45-46-47-48-49-50-51-52-53-54-55-56-57-58-59-60-61-62-63-64-65-66-67-68-69-70-71-72-73-74-75-76-77-78-79-80-81-82-83-84-85-86-87-88-89-90-91-92-93-94-95-96-97-98-99-100-101-102-103-104-105-106-107-108-109-110-111-112-113-114-115-116-117-118-119-120-121-122-123-124-125-126-127-128-129-130-131-132-133-134-135-136-137-138-139-140-141-142-143-144-145-146-147-148-149-150-151-152-153-154-155-156-157-158-159-160-161-162-163-164-165-166-167-168-169-170-171-172-173-174-175-176-177-178-179-180-181-182-183-184-185-186-187-188-189-190-191-192-193-194-195-196-197-198-199-200-201-202-203-204-205-206-207-208-209-210-211-212-213-214-215-216-217-218-219-220-221-222-223-224-225-226-227-228-229-230-231-232-233-234-235-236-237-238-239-240-241-242-243-244-245-246-247-248-249-250-251-252-253-254-255-256-257-258-259-260-261-262-263-264-265-266-267-268-269-270-271-272-273-274-275-276-277-278-279-280-281-282-283-284-285-286-287-288-289-290-291-292-293-294-295-296-297-298-299-300-301-302-303-304-305-306-307-308-309-310-311-312-313-314-315-316-317-318-319-320-321-322-323-324-325-326-327-328-329-330-331-332-333-334-335-336-337-338-339-340-341-342-343-344-345-346-347-348-349-350-351-352-353-354-355-356-357-358-359-360-361-362-363-364-365-366-367-368-369-370-371-372-373-374-375-376-377-378-379-380-381-382-383-384-385-386-387-388-389-390-391-392-393-394-395-396-397-398-399-400-401-402-403-404-405-406-407-408-409-410-411-412-413-414-415-416-417-418-419-420-421-422-423-424-425-426-427-428-429-430-431-432-433-434-435-436-437-438-439-440-441-442-443-444-445-446-447-448-449-450-451-452-453-454-455-456-457-458-459-460-461-462-463-464-465-466-467-468-469-470-471-472-473-474-475-476-477-478-479-480-481-482-483-484-485-486-487-488-489-490-491-492-493-494-495-496-497-498-499-500-501-502-503-504-505-506-507-508-509-510-511-512-513-514-515-516-517-518-519-520-521-522-523-524-525-526-527-528-529-530-531-532-533-534-535-536-537-538-539-540-541-542-543-544-545-546-547-548-549-550-551-552-553-554-555-556-557-558-559-560-561-562-563-564-565-566-567-568-569-570-571-572-573-574-575-576-577-578-579-580-581-582-583-584-585-586-587-588-589-590-591-592-593-594-595-596-597-598-599-600-601-602-603-604-605-606-607-608-609-610-611-612-613-614-615-616-617-618-619-620-621-622-623-624-625-626-627-628-629-630-631-632-633-634-635-636-637-638-639-640-641-642-643-644-645-646-647-648-649-650-651-652-653-654-655-656-657-658-659-660-661-662-663-664-665-666-667-668-669-670-671-672-673-674-675-676-677-678-679-680-681-682-683-684-685-686-687-688-689-690-691-692-693-694-695-696-697-698-699-700-701-702-703-704-705-706-707-708-709-710-711-712-713-714-715-716-717-718-719-720-721-722-723-724-725-726-727-728-729-730-731-732-733-734-735-736-737-738-739-740-741-742-743-744-745-746-747-748-749-750-751-752-753-754-755-756-757-758-759-7510-7511-7512-7513-7514-7515-7516-7517-7518-7519-7520-7521-7522-7523-7524-7525-7526-7527-7528-7529-7530-7531-7532-7533-7534-7535-7536-7537-7538-7539-7540-7541-7542-7543-7544-7545-7546-7547-7548-7549-7550-7551-7552-7553-7554-7555-7556-7557-7558-7559-7560-7561-7562-7563-7564-7565-7566-7567-7568-7569-75610-75611-75612-75613-75614-75615-75616-75617-75618-75619-75620-75621-75622-75623-75624-75625-75626-75627-75628-75629-75630-75631-75632-75633-75634-75635-75636-75637-75638-75639-75640-75641-75642-75643-75644-75645-75646-75647-75648-75649-75650-75651-75652-75653-75654-75655-75656-75657-75658-75659-75660-75661-75662-75663-75664-75665-75666-75667-75668-75669-75670-75671-75672-75673-75674-75675-75676-75677-75678-75679-75680-75681-75682-75683-75684-75685-75686-75687-75688-75689-75690-75691-75692-75693-75694-75695-75696-75697-75698-75699-756100-756101-756102-756103-756104-756105-756106-756107-756108-756109-756110-756111-756112-756113-756114-756115-756116-756117-756118-756119-756120-756121-756122-756123-756124-756125-756126-756127-756128-756129-756130-756131-756132-756133-756134-756135-756136-756137-756138-756139-756140-756141-756142-756143-756144-756145-756146-756147-756148-756149-756150-756151-756152-756153-756154-756155-756156-756157-756158-756159-756160-756161-756162-756163-756164-756165-756166-756167-756168-756169-756170-756171-756172-756173-756174-756175-756176-756177-756178-756179-756180-756181-756182-756183-756184-756185-756186-756187-756188-756189-756190-756191-756192-756193-756194-756195-756196-756197-756198-756199-756200-756201-756202-756203-756204